

Rush Chemistry Addendum Part 1

The following errors were fixed in the reprinted hardback, reprinted February 2006.

Dustflap – “Neal Peart” – should read Neil Peart

Page 33 – repeats the phrase “working man offers a grunge-filled climax, simple and highly effective, a call to arms”

Page 43 – “the latter was managed by Ira Blacker.” Ira wasn’t the manager, he was the tour agent.

Page 42 – “The date is 16th August 1974...venue is Civic Arena, Pittsburg...” should read 14th August 1974, which was a Wednesday

Page 141 – “When the ‘Presto’ tour came to a close at the end of June 1989” – this should read June 1990.

Page 256 – Justin, not Adrian Zivojinovich is Alex and Charlene’s first son.

Page 268 – The text “www.2112.net which links to a number of fan sites, not the least the Counterparts website” was of course supposed to be the Power Windows website

Rush Chemistry Addendum Part 2

The following errors will be fixed in a future reprint of the book.

Page 49 – “On April 25th they opened for Kiss” – this should read April 19th.

Page 50 – “On 27th June” – should read 25th June.

Page 89 – “than ab year” – should read “than a year”

Page 115 – Mentions Geddy working on Ken Ramm's Euphoria in 1985, but Euphoria was actually released in 1999, this is discussed on page 180.

Page 147 – “seventeen years to the day” – it was not to the day, as the debut album was released in March 1974.

Page 164 – the middle paragraph is out of place, discussing The Dexters where the surrounding paragraphs are discussing Victor. It would fit better on the previous page.

Page 167 – “late summer of 1996” – this should be 1995

Page 169 – “late autumn of 1996” – this should be 1995

Page 182 – “finally released on 24 October 2000” – should read 14th November 2000

Page 253 – “Getty” should, of course, be “Geddy”
